2021 Venice Architecture Biennale comes to the public from Monday 21 November 2021 to Sunday 21 March 2022. The 17th edition of the Venice Architecture Biennale is organized by La Biennale di Venezia and under the patronage of the Architecture Venice Biennale. When the first edition was held in 1895, the Giardini rise to the eastern edge of Venice. From the Venice Train Station you can arrive with the ACTV vaporetto lines. The fastest solution is line 6 but line 1 allows a complete journey of all the stops along the Grand Canal.

To access the exhibition, online booking is required for both venues. For the Giardini, tickets are available for a single day, for both pavilions, and for the Central Pavilion only. For the Arsenale, single day tickets are available for the Italian Pavilion and the Venice International Exhibition. A ticket combines the Arsenale's entrance and the French Pavilion. The ticket is valid for 3 days and includes the entrance to both spaces.

The exhibition opens in 2021 Venice Architecture Biennale as a special event to mark the occasion of the 50th anniversary of the United Nations. The theme of the 2021 Biennale is "How will we live together?" It is the first time that the Venice Architecture Biennale has dedicated an entire edition to exploring the relationship between architecture and society.

The exhibition is divided into an International Exhibition, curated by the Artistic Director Yvonne Farrell and Shelley McNamara of Grafton Architects; and 61 National Participations organized by the individual foreign Countries and Collateral Events sponsored or promoted by them.
